

LogiPharma Asia

Attended by the whole Life Sciences End-to-End Supply Chain in Asia

LogiPharma Asia is the meeting place for life science supply chain heads. This Pharmaceutical Supply Chain Conference will enable supply chain heads to share best practice on creating regionalised supply chains across the continent, taking into account specific issues such as temperature control, supply chain security, regulatory compliance and supplier management

The programme focuses on providing pharmaceutical companies with regionalised and demand-driven strategies that ensure their product reach customers safely and on-time.

3 days of sessions, panels and interactive roundtables allowing you to:

- Benchmark your Asian distribution strategies with supply chain heads from the top 20 pharma companies, responsible for driving regionalised and demand driven supply chains across the continent
- Network with over 150+ leaders representing the whole life sciences value chain, including: Big Pharma, Biotechs, CRO Generics and Medical Device companies
- Learn from over 10 keynote case studies and discussions on the changing role of the Asian supply chain in light of the move towards regionalisation and expansion into new markets
- Delve deep into the challenges surrounding cold chain, risk and security, compliance and regulations and supplier development by attending programme streams solely dedicated to these topics
